

New Chairman Elected

The Arlington County School Board elected Dr. John Reed Spicer chairman for the 1965-66 fiscal year.

At their annual organization meeting the board also elected James G. Stockard vice chairman in an unanimous vote.

Spicer immediately took over the duties from the immediate past chairman, Laszlo D. Ecker-Racz. Spicer had been vice-chairman for the past year. Now an employee of the Central Intelligence Agency, he has had 20 years' experience as a teacher and school administrator.

Spicer has been president of the Woodmont Elementary School Parent-Teachers Association, a member of the Stratford Junior High School Parent-Teachers Association executive committee and of advisory committees at Stratford and Washington-Lee High School before being appointed to the school board in January, 1964.

Stockard is a past chairman of the school board and a former teacher. He is presently employed by the Agency for International Development.
